AlertSanDiego, San Diego County's mass notification system, sends emergency information to your registered cell phone, Voice over Internet Protocol (VoIP) phone, and email address.

The County of San Diego launched AlertSanDiego, a new mass notification system during the 2007 wildfires. AlertSanDiego provides emergency notifications to residents about current emergencies in their area.

Listed and unlisted landlines are already registered in AlertSanDiego. Registering your cell phone or VoIP phone makes it more likely that you will receive an emergency notification. For those without a landline, registering with AlertSanDiego helps ensure you receive an emergency notification.

To ensure that the community is better notified and prepared for a disaster, we urge all San Diego County residents to register online for AlertSanDiego.
